During the past week, I participated in a financial seminar presented by the Finance Office of the Diocese of Columbus.

Topics covered included the new federal tax law, changes to insurance law, opportunities to improve energy efficiency, credit card record keeping, avoiding fraud, safety policies, payroll policies, laws about asbestos, and group purchasing. It's good to stay up-to-date on all these matters to make sure we are being good stewards and complying with all applicable laws and regulations.

As mentioned in last week's bulletin, our parish welcomes a visiting missionary this weekend who will make an appeal on behalf of Glenmary Home Missions. As we celebrate Pentecost Sunday, we are especially aware of the universality of the Church and our responsibility to help make disciples of people in every part of the world.

Sincerely Yours, in Christ,
 Father Thomas Buffer
